Destiny has chosen you ...

...but for what purpose? You always felt special ...since that day the neighbours dog incinerated after stealing your breakfast. Or how you always survive dangerous situations - Destiny seems to like you.

One day, shortly after your 10th birthday the Grand Jury from the University of Applied Magical Arts chose you as one of the fifty aspirants for this years admission contest. After the chaos and ash settled down, it was officially determined that one of the aspirants dropped his torch and caused a firestorm, killing most of the contestants and a few of the Grand Jury. Since you survived, you were admitted. Inofficially you also got your first reproof for causing so much havoc.

Even so the UAMA became your home for the next 13 years of your life and you learned to control and focus your powers.

On your 23rd birthday you graduate the UAMA as a wizard specialized in the noble Arts of Applied Elemental Forces. Your speciality is - unsurprisingly - the control of fire.

As you step out of the gates of the UAMA after 13 hard years the world has changed. It is not the same as it has been - and it seems to become worse. The Amulet of Yendor, the most important artifact, maintaining the order of the world, has been stolen by a fanatical wizard, who wants to rule the world. The world is lingering on the brink of chaos. Your Master tells you that Destiny has chosen you to rescue the Amulet of Yendor and save the world. But you feel that there are those who disagree with Destiny's choices ...
